ABILITYALLIES
Advocacy For Students With Disabilities

Legal services and educational advocacy for students with disabilities

■ WHO WE ARE:

- We provide free and low-cost legal assistance to help low-income Hoosier families in education matters involving students with disabilities.
- We help families obtain appropriate educational programs for their children, allowing them to reach their full potential.
- We provide free training for parents and professionals regarding special education rights and responsibilities.

■ WHAT WE DO:

- We help families navigate the confusing world of special education.
- We assist families with educational matters involving Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) and Section 504 plans.
- We handle a variety of issues, including special education eligibility, educational services and placement, and discipline matters.
- We advocate for and empower students and their parents to have a voice in their education.

■ WHEN TO CONTACT US:

- Families involved in Mediation, a Due Process Hearing Request, or a Special Education Complaint with their school.
- Families who suspect their child may have a disability, or whose child is struggling at school academically or behaviorally.
- Families of a child with a disability who are concerned about their child's educational services or whose child is subject to discipline at school for behavior related to his/her disability.
- Students with a disability who may need accommodations to access their education.

Apply for services by completing an application found on our website, or by scanning the QR Code. If you are interested in arranging for an educational presentation, call our office or message us through our website.
